WOMAN IS MURDER SUSPECT

Believe Jealousy in Love Triangle Led to Slaying of Maine Teacher

Amherst, Me., May 26.—Was pretty Louise Gerrish, 19-year-old school teacher murdered by a jealous woman as a result of a love-triangle in which the teacher was winning out?

The mysterious slaying of the young girl, whose bullet riddled body was found in a rough grave in a field near her home last Friday, took an unexpected turn today when Attorney General Danford W. Shaw definitely announced that a woman is suspected of the murder.

FOOTPRINTS FOUND.

Footprints made by a woman discovered imprinted in the soft clay near the crude grave of the murdered girl have furnished the latest clue. As a result of a check-up on these footprints it is likely, the authorities say, that a woman will be arrested within a few hours. She will be charged with the murder.

The theory is that the pretty school teacher perhaps unwittingly, became a party to a love triangle. Louise Gerrish was attractive. She wore pretty clothes.

HAD LOVE AFFAIRS.

The girl, who was active in church work and taught a Sunday school class in her home town of Winter Harbor, had a number of harmless love affairs. She was used to receiving attentions from the young men with whom she came in contact.

The latest theory is that the young teacher became the object of the bitter jealousy of some woman living in Amherst. The teacher was winning the affections of someone in whom the other woman believed she had a proprietory claim. This other woman is believed to have laid in wait along the lonely country road, and when the school teacher appeared, on her way to the Amherst postoffice for the mail, the letter, the jealous rival shot her down.

LETTERS MISSING.

There was a packet of letters—many of them from her friends of the opposite sex, which the slain girl carried with her. These letters are missing.

These letters have assumed added significance in view of the latest turn the murder mystery has taken. It is now thought that some of these letters at least, were from a man in

Springfield Judge Dismisses Entire Venire of Jurors

Springfield, May 26.—Dismissal of an entire venire of jurymen by Judge William A. Burns in Superior Court here today, with the statement by the court that he thought a majority of its members had shown that they had no desire to reach findings in accordance with the merits of the cases submitted, followed reports of not guilty in three liquor cases.

The cases were those of Mrs. Hulda Krueger and George C. Hunter, charged with illegal liquor sales, and Emil Krueger, charged with maintaining a liquor nuisance.

District Attorney C. H. Wright said that, in his opinion, the evidence against the defendants was questioned.

SOX LEAD AMERICAN LEAGUE

Now Share First Place With Yankees, Who Dropped Game to Detroit

By NICK FLATLEY.

The Red Sox lead the American League.

They are tied for first place with the champion Yankees who were hauled back yesterday when Detroit defeated them at the Polo Grounds, 6 to 5. Both clubs have won and lost exactly the same number of games as follows:

Won	Lost	P.C.
18	11	.621

Bob Quinn

The remarkable drive of the Red Sox to the pinnacle is the outstanding feature of the season. The club started poorly, and was apparently headed for the old place in the cellar when on the first visit to New York, four games in a row were lost.

SOX HAVE WON 15 OUT OF LAST 19 GAMES

But the turn came immediately after that. Since that catastrophe these remarkable Red Sox have won 15 out of 19 ball games. They have played all the clubs in the league now, and have looked just as good and a little bit better than any of them.

They have steadily displayed endless courage, combined with their remarkable ability to hit, and the native athletes can now be figured to count very seriously in the race right down to the finish. The club has been getting steady pitching, and hits around .300 as a body. And this combine will always win plenty of baseball games.

There hasn't been anything to

Chief of Police Rutherford asked that he be given a jail sentence.

COOLIDGE SIGNS JAP EXCLUSION

President Approves Immigration Bill to Avoid Row Over "Emergency" Legislation

Washington, May 26.—The Immigration Bill was signed today by President Coolidge. The bill carries the Japanese exclusion provision.

Despite this provision, which makes Japanese exclusion effective next July 1, and which was put into the measure over his vigorous opposition, the President decided to approve the bill because of other considerations.

It was pointed out that, inasmuch as the present immigration law expires on June 30, a veto might have made it necessary to rush through an emergency measure in the closing hours of the session.

Such a step, the President felt, would not be practicable, in view of the tangled legislative situation and the certainty that any emergency provision would be beset by many attempts at amendment and possibly blocked altogether.

TAUSIG STATEMENT.

As soon as he had affixed his signature to the bill, however, the President issued a statement expressing his disapproval of the failure of Congress to provide for a longer delay in the effective date of Japanese exclusion.

Headed the Japanese exclusion feature, the bill contains a number of provisions, which were the basis of stubborn contests when the legislation first was under consideration in Senate and House. One question long in dispute was the method of determining national quotas, which, under the measure as finally passed, are reckoned at 2 per cent. on the basis of the 1890 census.

HANBARA CAUSED STIR.

This and all other disagreements over the bill's provisions have been subordinated to the Japanese exclusion issue ever since Ambassador Hanihara, on April 11, sent a note to the State Department suggesting that the possibility of "grave consequences" be considered before an exclusive legislative barrier was reared against the Japanese.

The note was characterized in both Senate and House as a veiled threat and both reaffirmed quickly and by overwhelming majorities their desire for exclusion.

The House passed the bill, 322 to 71, and the Senate 62 to 6. Under the Senate measure exclusion would have been effective July 1 of this year, but the Senate voted to make it effective immediately. While the legislation was in conference, the President appealed directly to the conferees to write in a no imonement until March 1, 1924, so as to permit negotiation of an agreement with Japan, but the conference committee refused to approve his plan.

REGRETS JAP CLAUSE.

The President's statement declared he had approved the bill because of the necessity of considering "this bill as a whole, and the imperative need of the country for legislation of this general character."

If the exclusion provision stood

15-YEAR-OLD BETTY COLEBURNE SWIMS TO THE RESCUE...

SCENE OF RESCUE IN WHICH FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL HELPED

Peter McLaughlin was out sailing with his eight-year-old daughter, Dorothea, when the boat capsized off the Winthrop Yacht Clubhouse. Fifteen-year-old Betty Coleburne, who was on shore in her bathing suit, plunged in and swam to the overturned boat and assisted in the rescue. GIRL SWIMMER IN THRILLING RESCUE

A 100-yard swim against a heavy tide by a fifteen-year-old girl featured the rescue in Winthrop Harbor of Peter McLaughlin of Shirley street, and his eight-year-old daughter, Dorothea, after their sailboat had been capsized by a squall.

She assisted McLaughlin to right the boat in which they both returned to the shore after little Dorothea had been rescued by Charles Wheaton, operator of a Shirley Point street car, and Ted Cobb of Playstead Station, Winthrop, who leaped from the street car and rowed out in an old skiff.

Among the hundreds of autoists and pedestrians who viewed the rescue from the Shirley Point road were the wife and little son of McLaughlin.

McLaughlin had set out with his little daughter in Crystal Cove Bay and had proceeded about 150 yards off shore, when a sudden squall overturned the craft.

The father was thrown clear, while the little girl disappeared under the boat. After some difficulty, McLaughlin succeeded in grasping his little daughter and caused her to cling to overturned craft like himself.

Meanwhile fifteen-year-old Betty Coleburne of No. 90 Terrace avenue had plunged into the water from the beach where she had been standing in her bathing suit, and struck out for the overturned craft.

In the meantime, aid was speeding toward the distressed boat from another quarter. Conductor Wheaton had stopped his car and with Cobb, one of his passengers, hurried to shore, and embarked in an old skiff.

They reached the overturned sailboat, took father and daughter aboard and returned toward shore. When they were within a few yards from shore, the craft filled with water and sank. The water, however, was shallow at this point, and all succeeded in reaching shore in safety.

Miss Coleburne swam to shore unaided.

TAX REDUCTION BILL ALLOWS FOR BONUS

Washington, May 26.—When debate opened in the House today on the tax reduction bill Chairman Green of the Ways and Means Committee said the treasury actuary had assured him that there would be a sufficient surplus this year to pay for the bonus next year "twice over."

Under operation of the bill during the next fiscal year, treasury estimate showed, Mr. Green said, there would be a surplus of $138,800,000.

Representative Mapes, Republican, Michigan, asked if the treasury vouched for these figures and Chairman Green replied that it meant the office approved them as correct.

The conference bill goes $22,000,000 beyond the reductions recommended by Secretary Mellon.

Final passage of the bill was predicted today by leaders of both parties.

COLLUSION IN DIVORCE CHARGED

Stoneman, on Stand, Declares His Client Refused to Pay Even One Dollar

William J. Corcoran, former Middlesex County district attorney, set $150,000 as the price for which charges he said were pending against Bruce Wetmore could be settled.

This was testified today in East Cambridge Superior Court, by David Stoneman, Boston lawyer, during the trial of Corcoran and Daniel H. Coakley on conspiracy charges.

Stoneman, under cross-examination by Coakley, declared he asked Corcoran what the case was against Wetmore.

"It's not a case; it's a Christmas tree," Corcoran responded, according to the witness.

Corcoran then explained that Wetmore was charged with collusion in obtaining a divorce.

COX MENTIONED

Wetmore, well known in Boston, was declared by Corcoran to have been visiting a woman in Concord, according to Stoneman's testimony.

Governor Cox was identified today with the trial. Also injected into today's session, one marked by frequent tilts between Coakley and District Attorney Reading, were the names of Jesse Lasky, Adolph Zukor, Hiram Abrams, Melvin M. Johnson, Robert G. Dodge, Daniel J. Gallagher, Walter E. Brownell and the Mishawum Manor.

During his cross-examination, Stoneman denied that Mrs. Wetmore, during a time when the couple sought a divorce, charged that Governor Cox and Brownell, her coun

Three witnesses were defaulted today for failing to respond to summonses. They were James H. Whitney, Esther C. Hoppin and Alonzo W. Perry.

District Attorney Reading is asking for the defaults to be withdrawn, and requested Judge Whiting to issue capiases unless they come into court.

Charles Weinberg, alias Max Weinberg, prisoner from State prison, was committed to the custody of Sheriff Fairborn at the request of District Attorney Reading as a witness in the case.

Under the order of the court he will be committed to Middlesex county jail at East Cambridge until called to the witness stand.

There was an overflow attendance today at the beginning of the second week of the trial. There were more women in attendance than at any time to date. The corridor was crowded with disappointed persons who failed to gain admittance.

Following the default of three witnesses counsel for both sides went into Judge Whiting's room.

When they came out nothing was announced. He said merely that there was a witness

MISS GERRISH LEAVES HER HOME.

PANORAMIC VIEW OF ROAD TRAVERSED BY LOUISE GERRISH, MAINE SCHOOL TEACHER, WHICH ENDED WITH HER MURDER IN LONELY SPOT

Somewhere along the road shown above and marked by dotted line Miss Louise Gerrish was intercepted by her slayer, who shot her to death and then either alone or with the aid of others carried her body to a field and buried it in a hastily dug shallow grave. She left her home, situated behind the trees in the upper right hand corner of the picture shown above, and is believed to have passed down by the barn on her way to the postoffice, marked by arrow in the upper left of the picture, to mail a letter, presumably in reply to a note informing her that a pajama party which she, with two other teachers held in her room, had been watched from outside by some anonymous "peeper." She never reached the postoffice. Where she turned back at the behest of some one, presumably known to her, is a mystery the authorities who are investigating the murder have not as yet solved. She is supposed to have met her death near the crossroads in front of the barn shown in the picture. Her body was then taken to the spot marked by a cross at upper right and buried. Large inset is of Miss Gerrish, the murdered girl. Insets at lower right, left to right, are Victor McDonald and Roland McDonald, neighbors, who were questioned by the county authorities as to their knowledge of the murder and then eliminated from the case. Later the coat of Roland was taken by County Attorney Whiting and has been sent to an expert for examination as to whether stains found upon it are those of human blood. The two men in insets at upper centre of picture, above auto, are, left, Sheriff Ward W. Wescott, and right, County Attorney William E. Whiting, who are probing the murder. They intimate that the arrest of a woman is near.

METHODISTS TO TACKLE JAZZ DANCING

Springfield, May 26 (I. N. S.).—Resolutions condemning dancing, the modern dance, suggestive motion pictures and immodesty in dress were presented to the Methodist General conference here today by the committee on temperance, public relations and public morals.

The resolutions also protest commercialized prize fighting as a "perversion of healthful sport." The resolutions state:

"We recognize the demand for a ministry of prevention as well as rescue and we pledge anew our total strength and unite in organized efforts for the removal of everything that threatens the moral life of our civilization."

The resolutions were submitted by Ernest H. Cherrington of Westerville, Ohio, in behalf of the committee.

Rev. Dr. James C. Baker of Urbana, Ill., chairman of the Commission on Foreign Missions, submitted a report recommending the adoption of the plan for central conferences and central missions conferences, the central conferences would cover areas larger than the annual conferences and are intended to be of assistance in the mission and educational work of the church.

A thorough study of the Constitution of the United States by all Methodists is encouraged in the committee on State and Church relations calling for improved liquor laws were also presented.

whom the jealous slayer was vitally interested.

James R. Wood, head of the Wood Detective Agency in Boston, has arrived on the scene and is in active charge of the investigation.

Immediately upon the arrival of the detective in Bangor he went up to conference with State Attorney General Ransford W. Shaw and County Attorney William E. Whiting. The conference lasted all night and when it broke up announcement was made that no arrest could be expected within a few hours.

MEN ELIMINATED.

The Attorney General was willing to discuss the case as he walked from the hotel. He said:

"We have eliminated every man and boy in the town of Amherst. And as I know almost every person in the town—there are only 200 of them—we are forced to believe a woman or girl rival slew Miss Gerrish.

"Everything we have in the way of a clue points to that solution. We know that Miss Gerrish was on the way to post a letter. Her landlady, Miss Charles Williams, has told us that.

"We know Miss Gerrish was carrying on some harmless flirtations. We also know that girls who flirt most usually write letters. And that no person in Amherst knew of this flirtation and was vitally interested in it.

"What's more natural than that the 'other woman' should have accosted Miss Gerrish and demanded the incriminating letter? This is a primitive community up here in these Maine woods.

"Men and women who live here do things with a startling directness. They have not the indirectness and polish of a more highly cultivated community.

"Up here a man belongs to a woman when he pays her attention. She looks upon him as her property.

ATTRACTED SUITORS.

"Along comes Miss Gerrish from down Winter Harbor way. She had the advantages of both most of the girls here in Amherst. She was better looking, high-spirited, ambitious. She knew how to dress, how to talk and how to dance. The pajama party her friend, Miss Coombs, told about proves that. Her clothes, her hats, her shoes and stockings, that set off her pretty ankles, would have attracted attention, I am told, in any community.

"Here she couldn't help being contrasted by the young men of the town with the more pretentiously dressed girls they had been used to seeing. They were attracted to her, a good many of them.

"Some paid her court, a few became friendly with her. One, we know, believed himself the favored suitor. It flattered Miss Gerrish just like it would any other girl.

TAKE LOVES SERIOUS.

"But there was one thing she didn't realize about this community. Men and women take their loves and hates seriously. Cross them in one or the other and you have started something.

"The flirtatious Miss Gerrish looked upon as harmless meant the happiness of the whole lives to these girls and women here.

"So reasoning from what we have already learned, what is more natural than that some one of these girls went love mad when she saw Miss Gerrish winning away her man?

LETTER NEAR GRAVE.

"We found a letter near the grave addressed to Miss Gerish. It was from her cousin down in Winter Harbor.

"We feel sure that this letter was among others Miss Gerrish had on her way to the postoffice. From the scent of sachet powder on it we infer Miss Gerrish carried it with the others.

TORN AND CRUMPLED.

"The letter was torn and crumpled as if it had been snatched from her, read hastily and proving harmless crumpled and cast aside.

"There may be finger prints on the letter. We have sent it away for examination. Yet so many handled it before we got it, we hardly hope for any identifying finger prints.

"There was absolutely nothing in the letter that would furnish us a clue. But what became of those other letters Mrs. Williams has told us the girl wrote? No one has received them."

SLAIN GIRL BURIED.

Meanwhile, in Winter Harbor the funeral of the murder victim was being held. The entire population of Winter Harbor went to the Baptist Church to attend the services. It was here that she taught Sunday School for several years.

The entire graduating class of 1922 in Winter Harbor High School of which class Miss Gerrish was a member, attended in a body and occupied seats in the front part of the church.

In accordance with their wishes of the family the services were simple, being conducted by the Rev. H. W. Nutter, pastor of the church.

The dark gray casket was banked in flowers, numerous pieces being received from friends of the dead girl and of the family. A handsome wreath from the members of her graduating class attracted much attention. Miss Gerrish was class member at the graduating exercises.

The following four young men who were her classmates acted as pallbearers: Alton Gerrish, a cousin of the dead girl, Harold Grover, Evelyn Nash and Arnold Joy. Interment was in the family lot in Greenwood cemetery here. Scores of residents followed the funeral cortege to the cemetery.

STAINS ON BOY'S COAT.

Roland MacDonald, the fifteen-year-old boy who lives near the place where the body of the slain girl was found, has been questioned half a dozen times by the authorities. MacDonald's coat has been taken to the Eastern Maine General Hospital in Bangor, where some stains are being subjected to a microscope examination. The authorities believe that these spots are blood and they may have an important bearing on the case.

Excitement is still running high in this section over the brutal crime. Chairman Forrest O. Kidder of the Amherst board of selectmen has written Governor Baxter asking that the State offer a suitable reward for the apprehension of the slayer. The Governor, who has been on a fishing trip, is expected to take action on the request today.

QUESTION ALIBI.

A man also is to be questioned again today. This man, previously interviewed by the authorities, was able to furnish what appeared to be a satisfactory alibi as to his whereabouts on Thursday night at the time the girl was slain. During the last few hours the authorities have received information which leads them to question this alibi.

Of five suspects who have been questioned during the past twenty-four hours, three have been definitely eliminated. The other two are being questioned again today. The attorney general is unwilling to discuss the finding of the stained coat of the MacDonald boy.

Dr. Charles C. Knowlton, medical examiner, believes that the body of Miss Gerrish was abused after she was slain. Vitals of the dead girl have been sent to Bangor for examination by experts. Examination of the victim's clothing revealed that she was dressed when shot and that the shots were fired from a distance of approximately twenty-five feet.

It is regarded as plausible that the person who fired the fatal shot returned to the scene of the crime hours later, accompanied by other members of his or her family and the body was then interred.

PATROLMAN TRIED BY POLICE BOARD

Patrolman William J. Bradley, Station 11, Dorchester, went on trial before a police trial board today charged with entering a "near beer" saloon and luncheon, demanding a drink and trying to enforce the demand with his gun. Lewis Slosberg, proprietor of an establishment at Court and Sudbury streets, is the complainant. Customers were in the pla[illegible] flashed his gun.

Carmen on the Boston Elevated emphatically declare they will not agree to any cut in wages on July 1.

They are firm in their conviction that they should receive no increase in pay, and will insist on the present demand for a twenty-five-cent advance, which would bring their minimum to ninety-five cents an hour.

This demand was followed by a proposal from the Elevated's trustees that the men accept a reduction of five cents an hour, cutting their wages from seventy cents to sixty-five cents an hour.

"The men positively will not agree to any reduction in their wages," Charles H. Clark, president of the union, declared today to the American. You can take that as strong as you want to."

President Clark and members of the union's agreement committee are holding daily conferences with representatives of the Elevated.

John H. Reardon of Worcester, member of the executive board of the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway Employes of America, arrived today and entered into the negotiations.

President Clark said negotiation would probably extend over a considerable period. They are amicable and he felt there would be an adjustment without resource to arbitration.

FIND BODY OF GIRL IN RIVER AFTER 7 WEEKS

Haverhill, May 26.—The final chapter of a Merrimack River tragedy was written today when the body of twelve-year-old Rosina Cheney, stepdaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Riggle of the Pleasant Valley section, floated to the surface at the foot of East Broadway.

Two weeks ago the body of her brother, Rocco, eight years old, was uncovered in the waters of the Merrimack at Black Rock, Newburyport.

On the afternoon of April 7 both and sister were seen observing the river's new high water mark in Haverhill. Neither appeared at their home in the evening and a police search for them was conducted.

HARMLESS PILLS FOR SHOW GIRL'S 'SUICIDE'

New York, May 26.—A "suicide" dramatically conceived, police said, failed when twenty-one-year-old Imogene Wilson, late of the Ziegfeld Follies, today took four pellets which she said contained morphine. An ambulance surgeon said the pills were for indigestion, and otherwise harmless.

Encircling a photograph, said to be that of a well-known comedian, was a note which the girl admitted writing. It read in part: "I know how terrible sad are, but I love you in spite of yourself."

STATE PRISONERS SEE "10 COMMANDMENTS"

Inmates at Charlestown State Prison viewed a presentation of "The Ten Commandments" Cecil B. DeMille's motion picture mas[illegible] in the prison chapel. The showing was arranged by Mrs. E. F. Goulston, chairman of the Jewish Prison Aid Society, through the courtesy of George J. Schaefer, New England manager for Jesse L. Lasky.

Mrs. Goulston saw the picture at the Tremont Theatre and was convinced it would be helpful to the inmates. Music was arranged for in connection with the film.

GROSSMAN SEEKING RELEASE ON BAIL

Washington, May 26.—Philip Grossman, the former Chicago saloon keeper, now held in confinement for contempt of court upon order of Judges Carpenter and Wilkerson, despite a commutation by President Coolidge, today asked the supreme court to release him on bail pending an appeal.

Mother Sees Boy Hit by Trolley; He Gets a Few Scratches

A three-year-old boy ran before a trolley car in front of his home at No. 383 Sumner street, East Boston, today.

There was a grinding of brakes, women screamed, and the boy's mother ran from the house just in time to see her son struck by the fender and rolled under the car.

One hour later little Alfred Giarrantino sat up in a bed at the Relief Hospital with only a few scratches to show for his experience. He was happy at the attention showed him and the snowy white bed and could not understand his mother's tears.

When the accident occurred some one pulled a fire alarm box and District Chief Power responded. The car was raised with a jack and the boy lifted out.

SAFE BLOWN IN LYNN STORE; $700 STOLEN

Thieves who crawled 100 yards over roofs of stores and lodging houses, blew the safe in the clothing store of the Besse-System Co., Inc., No. 144 Market street, Lynn, early today, then looted the store of men's and women's apparel.

From the safe the cracksman secured $150 in money. A packet of bills totaling $7600, in another compartment of the safe, was overlooked.

Preparations were made to blow another safe in the private office of Charles Reiffe, the proprietor, but were abandoned.

From stock in the store, the thieves made a discriminating selection of silk stockings, men's silk shirts, women's silk waists and underwear, valued at more than $600.

Automobiles were used by the thieves to transport their loot after they had carried it back over the roofs. Occupants of lodging houses in the vicinity told the police they heard two or more machine stop in the street early today and remain

Goodwin Again Flays Leniency Toward Drunken Drivers

"When only two persons are committed to jail out of 77 persons found guilty of operating under the influence of liquor there isn't much use of expecting drunken driving to be reduced," Registrar Frank A. Goodwin said in his weekly report of automobile accidents.

There were 12 fatalities, one more than last week. Seven were adults, five children.

There were 77 convictions for operating under the influence of liquor, a reduction of 11 from last week, and 244 licenses suspended or revoked, 53 fewer than last week.

PARK BOOTLEGS ARE FINED IN BRIGHTON

Judge Connelly of Brighton police court has joined forces with the police to purge the public parks in the Brighton district of the liquor nuisance.

Seven men, all residents of Brighton, were fined a total of $120 by Judge Connelly today following arrests in the William F. Smith playground by a special detachment of police.

Michael Wallace of No. 63 C street, South Boston, Joseph Burke of Quincy street, Medford, and Francis McManus of No. 91 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, were fined $20 each for having liquor in their possession.

Joseph P. Walsh of No. 159 Broadway, Nemo Cove of No. 24, Bolton street, Andrew Hennessy and Barclay Kennedy of No. 7 A street all of South Boston, were fined $10 each for drunkenness.

HOUSING BILL CRISIS OF LABOR CABINET

London, May 26.—The MacDonald Cabinet has decided that if the government is defeated on any essential feature in the forthcoming debate on the housing bill it will immediately resign and appeal to the country, according to the parliamentary correspondent of the labor organ, the Daily Herald. It has been agreed to divide the housing bill into two parts, namely, the housing measure proper and the part designed to check profiteering in building materials.

SMALL BOYS AND BIG BOYS HAIL CIRCUS PARADE

Elephants, Lions, Monkeys and All the Fixings Make Joy for Everyone

Having satisfied itself that Jim Gallivan, one Michael Crowley and the rest of the old "Shakers' Dozen" are now grown up and won't try to get in and play with the lions in their cages, the Sells-Floto circus opened its canvas doors in South Boston today and cried, "Let's go."

But not until this same Michael Crowley had leaned a lot of his pie-loving gentlemen for the circus parade without which no circus is complete at all.

The prodigal sun beamed its brightest on this parade of parades mourned a few weeks ago as something lost to Boston, because of lack of circus grounds. Sells-Floto found parking space, however, in a lot on the west side of Dorchester avenue, on the fringe of the Andrew Square tunnel station.

CLOWNS AND CALLIOPE.

From this lot the joyous parade, well stuffed with lions, tigers, elephants, monkeys, horses with stripes and without stripes, clowns and seals from the barking calliope, started through the city.

From Andrew square the parade untangled itself, then chortled joyously through Southampton street to Massachusetts avenue, affording a glimpse to those patients at the City Hospital able to be up and around. Then to Columbus avenue, Berkeley street to Boylston, over the humps to Tremont street with the calliope and the clown band never missing a note.

Down Tremont street to Dover, with the crowd shouting its plaudits the parade wended, and the Sons of Nubian roared angrily. He wanted the lions ashore.

Once at Dover street, the colorful parade dimmed its way "crosstown" until the lumbering elephants and the other beasts of the jungle took once more homeward on the South Boston lot.

JOY IS UNCONFINED

The real excitement, of course, started in the afternoon, when the small boy men, the ticket sellers and the ushers announced, thanking one more week than Webster ever thought existed, mounted their stands and let it be known to all whom it might concern that joy unconfined, should be unconfined.

Smart Set Facing Hectic Round of June Social Events, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

A HECTIC round of weddings, horse shows and out-door fetes will keep members of the fashionable world "on the go" for the next three weeks.

After Harvard Class Day and the all-important Blue and Crimson days on the Thames, society bounded pretty well scattered for the season. The shore and the mountains will have their usual quota of sojourners, while others will sail away to foreign shores.

Phyllis Rich
(Photo by Harris)

Among the latter is Miss Phyllis Rich, daughter of Mrs. Charles J. Rich of Marlboro street, and a sirkling brunette. Miss Rich will pass the Summer abroad, where she spends almost as much of her time as she does in Boston.

Also leaving shortly for other shores is Mrs. Edwin B. Bartlett of Mt. Vernon street and her sub-debutante daughter, Miss Elizabeth A. Bartlett.

They will remain for a year in Paris, where Miss Elizabeth will devote most of her time to studying.

NOTABLE members of international society thronged Longchamps for the first of the season's big races, the gorgeous fashion display playing its usual important part in the affair.

Among those noted in the gay outpouring were Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munn, Mary Baker Dank, who are well-known along the North Shore as members of the Manchester Summer colony.

Mrs. Munn, it will be remembered, was known as the "butterfly debutante" when she made her bow in Philadelphia society over a decade ago. On the night of her coming out party she appeared amid a cloud of more than 500 butterflies of the most beautiful types. It took over a year to collect these butterflies from different parts of the world.

Others taking in the races at Longchamps, include the Hon. John F. A. Cecil and his bride, the former Cornelia Vanderbilt.

An equally imposing throng watched the races at St. Cloud the following day. In this gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, who will return here long to "Highlehead," their magnificent estate at Manchester-by-the-Sea. Also at St. Cloud were Mr. and Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson, whose son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Morehead Patterson, will give up their Cambridge residence next month when Mr. Patterson receives his degree from the Harvard Law School.

MARGARET GOLDTHWAIT

Miss Margaret R. Goldthwait, whose engagement to Roger W. Bennett of Weston, just announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Joel E. Goldthwait, is of particular interest to elder members of the 1918 Sewing Circle.

Society Notes

MRS. OSCAR IASIGI of Beacon street has opened "Clovercroft," her Stockbridge Summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Foster will occupy a cottage on Mason's Rock at Marblehead during the coming season.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles G. Mixter will be of the colony at Peach's Point in Marblehead this Summer. They have taken "Overlook," the Crowninshield cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Preble Motley are among the season's early arrivals along the Shore. They are already established at Beverly.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. White-house gave a trout dinner at the Red Lion Inn in Stockbridge the other day. They caught the fish themselves, the trout averaging a pound each.

Miss Francesca Braggiotti will leave tomorrow for Paradise Lake in Vermont, where Miss Braggiotti and her sister Baroness are being showered with congratulations upon the beauty and success of their Denishawn pupils' recital, staged on Saturday at "Weld."

LARKIN RAID IN DUBLIN LEADS TO STRIKE

Dublin, May 26 (A.P.)—The port of Dublin was completely idle today in consequence of an unexpected strike called as an aftermath to the arrest of forty-five followers of James Larkin, the labor agitator, in a raid on the famous Liberty Hall.

Instead of going to work today the men gathered in groups and discussed the situation growing out of the raid.

Dublin, May 26 (Universal Wireless).—The Free State Government believes that the Communist uprising has been nipped in the bud. Several truckloads of troops, preceded by an armored car, arrived at Liberty Hall, Larkin's headquarters, and under cover of machine guns took possession of the building and arrested forty-five men inside.

Ammunition, rifles and revolvers were found in the building. Larkin was taken at the request of labor leaders.

Belfast, May 26.—The Ulster police were watchful on the South border for an attempt by James Larkin, the Labor agitator, to enter northern territory, in which case, according to an official statement, he would be arrested and interned. Larkin told a meeting at Dundalk that he was going to Belfast again to organize when the opportune time came. He asked his audience to get ready to help him when he crossed the border.

"We know no boundary, from Antrim Hill to the cove of Cork," he declared. "Never mind Jimmy Craig (Ulster Premier) or De Valera. As we going to be cut off by an arrangement made in England by the cursed treaty and consented to unjustly by the non-conformist consciences of Lloyd George?"

THREE NEAR DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Major Randolph Templeton of No. 149 Oakley road, Belmont, his wife and Miss Anna Skain, a passenger in his auto, were near death when their closed car turned turtle at Brooks and Beacon streets, Brighton.

The trio, injured, were imprisoned in the wreckage of the car, and it was necessary for their rescuers to cut away a side of the machine before they could be removed and taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

The Templeton car was running on Brooks street when an "L" ban cut across the street. Templeton threw on the brakes so sharply his machine skidded and turned completely over. The car of Kenneth Monahan of Lowell, following the Templeton machine, crashed into the wreckage, but no one in the Lowell car was injured.

POLICE STATION IS CLOSED TO GOODWIN STAFF

Registrar's Inspectors Quit Malden Headquarters as Result of Protests

Vigorous objection by Malden police to further use of police headquarters for Registrar Goodwin's staff of motor vehicle inspectors has resulted in their vacating the building. Beginning this week they will be at the Malden Armory.

When the motor vehicle registration branch was established in Malden several years ago, Malden offered the use of the guard room at the police building for their work one day a week. The work has greatly increased, several inspectors instead of one are employed and so many applicants for auto operators' licenses have appeared that traffic in the vicinity of the police station has been hampered. People have overrun the police station so as to seriously interfere fith police business and so many telephone calls have been received over the police wires relating to motor vehicle registration business that an additional policeman was required to attend to the State's business on the telephone alone.

RECTOR GRANT AND MRS. LYDIG DECIDE NOT TO BE MARRIED

BISHOP'S OPPOSITION LEADS TO BREAKING ENGAGEMENT

New York, May 26.—Because of the continued and unrelenting opposition of Bishop William T. Manning, head of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York, Mrs. Philip Lydig, for years an internationally known society leader, and the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, one of the bestknown clergymen of the church, have broken their engagement of more than two years' standing.

This was announced definitely by Mrs. Lydig and Dr. Grant in a formal communication to the newspapers reading as follows:

"Mrs. Lydig and Dr. Percy Stickney Grant announce the breaking of their engagement owing to Bishop Manning's refusal to give his consent to a marriage in the Protestant Episcopal Church."

The engagement of Mrs. Lydig and Dr. Grant was announced on August 4, 1921, exclusively to the Boston and New York American. It almost immediately provoked a controversy between the noted rector of the Church of the Ascension and Bishop Manning, whose criticism of Dr. Grant's liberal views almost resulted in ecclesastical feud.

Soon afterward Bishop Manning handed down a definite ruling that the rector and Mrs. Lydig might not be married in the church, because of the fact that Mrs. Lydig had been divorced.

The ruling was based upon Canon No. 42 of the church, and held that no rector of the church in this diocese might perform the ceremony.

Mrs. Lydig, previous to the beginning of her romance with Dr. Grant, was the successful applicant for two decrees of divorce, the first from W. E. D. Stokes, whose later marital troubles with Mrs. Mrs Helen Elwood Stokes have been much in the courts recently, and the second from Major Philip M. Lydig, an army leader and of a socially prominent family.

Before her first marriage she was Miss Rita Hernandez Y. de Alba de Acosta, a descendant of an old Spanish family. She long has been a social favorite noted for her beauty.

CHLORINE GAS DECRIED BY DR. MAHONEY

Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Health Commissioner of Boston, is unconvinced that the chlorine gas treatment, which is reported as having cured a cold of President Coolidge is worthy of trial here.

"According to the experiences that they have had with chlorine gas in the army and navy, I would not suggest it as a treatment for the public," Commissioner Mahoney asserted. "The treatment has its good qualities, but no results have not been sufficient to warrant the officials of the city making any big fuss over it.

"I have an amazing amount of statistics regarding the use of chlorine gas. I will not be instrumental in any movement to treat the cold-suffering public with chlorine gas."

GIRL KILLED IN AUTO CRASH MYSTERY

A Somerville girl was killed and two young men were seriously hurt when a motorcycle and side car in which they were riding was wrecked in collision with a mysterious roadster on the Worcester Post road in Wayland.

The girl, Mary Razzull, eighteen years old, of Bow street, Somerville, was riding in the side car when the crash occurred. She was taken to Waltham Hospital but was pronounced dead when she reached there.

The injured men, Joseph Carrot of No. 49 Lynde street, Everett, and Philip Bonaco of No. 13 Everett street, East Boston, were taken to Marlboro Hospital. Carrot has a broken leg and the other man is held for observation.

The auto into which they crashed was upset by the roadside, but its occupants had vanished when investigators arrived on the scene and it is not known whether they were hurt.

Friends of the motorcyclists following on a similar machine were the first to discover the accident when they arrived shortly after the crash and found Carrot and Bonaco semi-conscious near their demolished machine and the girl dying in a nearby clump of bushes.

Then they found the wrecked and abandoned roadster, whose owner and driver the police are now hunting.

MASKED BANDIT ROBS FOUR IN PULLMAN

Kansas City, Mar 26.—A masked bandit boarded Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe passenger train No. 9, the "Navajo," as it pulled into Kansas City from Chicago, robbed four passengers of approximately $200, and escaped before the train reached the Union Station.

The bandit boarded the train at Sheffield, on the East Side, entered a Pullman car and lined up the four victims in a smoking compartment. "Come on," he ordered, "just put up your hands and no one will be hurt."

NEW TABLE FOR VETERANS' INSURANCE

Boston American and Advertiser Announce Revised Plan to Compute Credits

Boston American—Boston Daily Advertiser Bonus headquarters, No. 80 Summer street, announces today a revised and corrected table by which ex-service men can compute the amounts due them under the bonus law in paid-up 20-year endowment insurance.

The new table was transmitted to the Boston American by Director Frank T. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau at Washington.

CREDIT INCLUDED.

Previous instructions had provided for the addition of 25 per cent to the adjusted service credit, but this is not to be added because it is incorporated in the factor table which follows.

Age	Factor	Age	Factor
24	2.545	35	2.764
25	2.556	36	2.784
26	2.567	37	2.804
27	2.577	38	2.824
28	2.588	39	2.844
29	2.599	40	2.864
30	2.610	41	2.884
31	2.621	42	2.904
32	2.632	43	2.924
33	2.643	44	2.944
34	2.653	45	2.964

The following instructions were issued with the table:

DAILY ALLOWANCES.

"Allow $1 per day for each day of home service and $1.25 for each day of foreign service. Deduct $60 from this sum. Multiply this remainder by the factor opposite the age nearest birthday to date certificate is issued. The factor includes the 25 per cent increase and this sum also should NOT be added to the adjusted service credit before multiplying by the factor.

The following example shows how to work the table:

Age at date of issue	25 years
Home service	700 days
Foreign service	100 days
Total service, 700 days $1 equals	$700
100 days $1.25 equals	125
Adjusted service credit	$825
Multiply by factor at age 25	2.556
	$2,107

Government charts showing geographical origin of men in the various forces are believed to give a fair indication of how veterans who will benefit under the bonus bill are distributed now.

BAY STATE SIXTH.

The allotment of bonus application blanks will be made on the basis of these charts and the proportions range all the way from New York's 14.967 per cent of the total war-time personnel to the 0.001 per cent for the Virgin Islands.

The percentages cover not only army, navy and marine corps, but coast guard and United States guards.

Pennsylvania stood next to New York with 7.787 per cent; Illinois third with 4.722; Ohio fourth with 4.112; Texas fifth with 4.161; Massachusetts sixth with 4.066; Michigan seventh with 2.579; Missouri eighth with 2.436, and California ninth with 2.332 per cent.

Among States furnishing between one and two per cent, was Connecticut 1.408; among States furnishing less than one per cent, were Maine, 0.648; Rhode Island, 0.456; New Hampshire, 0.356; and Vermont, 0.250.

PRESBYTERIANS ADOPT PLEDGE TO OUTLAW WAR

Factions May Unite as Result of Dr. Whaling's Visit to Assembly

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 25 (A.P.)—The Presbyterian General Assembly today unanimously adopted a resolution pledging itself to the outlawing of war and to the hastening of the day "when nations shall learn to war no more."

The resolution was adopted after efforts to amend it to provide an agency to crystallize the peace sentiment had been beaten. An amendment to insert in the resolution a sentence declaring "the full support of members of the church to the nation should the country become involved in war," was overwhelmingly defeated.

The resolution set forth that the church "refuses to believe that the wholesale slaughter of human beings upon the battlefield is morally any more necessary to man's highest development than is killing by the individual." It invites the co-operation "of all Christendom in a determined effort to devise such complete machinery for peace as shall insure the settlement of all international controversies by reason instead of force."

Grand Rapids, May 24 (A.P.)—Definite indications of the possibility of a reunion of the two groups of Presbyterians in this country was seen today in an announcement that Dr. Thornton Whaling, moderator of the Presbyterian church in the United States, South, will pay a friendly visit tomorrow to the 136th general assembly.

It will be the first time a moderator of the Southern church has ever visited the assembly of the parent body.

That Dr. Whaling's visit may strengthen the cause of the fraternalists was indicated by Dr. Clarence H. Macartney, moderator of the assembly here.

According to hotel employes, McInerney was free with his checks, but it is charged they are worthless. He is said to have a similar record in Ohio.

AGED MUSICIAN OF THE STREETS VANISHES

George F. Taylor, aged street musician, has not been seen since Saturday morning, when he left his home at No. 1 Dell street, Somerville, with a sum of money pinned in his shirt.

Chief of Police Kendall of Somerville fears Taylor may have met with foul play.

According to Mrs. Bernard Southwell, with whom the seventy-seven-year-old accordion player roomed, Taylor left the house at 6:40 Saturday morning without finishing his breakfast. He did not return that night and no trace has been found of him.

Taylor has been a well-known figure in Somerville and Dorchester for years. He is about 5 feet 8 inches in height, weighs 190 pounds and has gray hair and mustache and no teeth.

Connery Introduces Bill to Provide Cash Bonus

Washington, May 26.—Congressman William P. Connery, Jr. of Lynn, Mass., today introduced in the House of Representatives a bill to amend the bonus law.

The bill is identical to that introduced in the Senate by Senator Walsh. Under the Walsh Connery bill veterans would be enabled to obtain cash in lieu of insurance policies.

The Massachusetts sponsors of the bill claim the government would save $1,000,000 by paying cash.

THREAT TO BARE LAWRENCE RUM RING

Lawrence Storekeeper Claims He Is Being Persecuted by Leaders of Booze Gang

Lawrence, May 26.—Sensational developments involving prominent politicians, public officials and business and professional men are promised in Lowell Wednesday, when Fred Margras of Lawrence is arraigned before United States Commissioner Walsh on charges of keeping and exposing liquor.

Margras is proprietor of a wholesale beverage establishment at No. 353 Common street, Lawrence, de was raided recently by the lawrence liquor squad and subsequently by Federal agents.

Margras is incensed over the affair and says he is being persecuted because he refused to "shut down in the case" of a gigantic booze ring which controls the sale of beer and whiskey in Lawrence.

CONTROLLED BY "RING."

It is understood that Margras will contend during the hearing and trial that his offence is a minor affair compared with the traffic in booze and beer as carried on in Lawrence, in prices to retailers.

Passage of Alien Bill 'Blow to Christian Jap Churches'

Tokio, May 26 (A.P.).—According to the Hochi and other newspapers, the smaller native Christian churches have been dealt a damaging blow by the passage of the American immigration bill with its clause excluding Japanese. These journals declare that the action of the immigration bill has made the Japanese distrust the mission schools and their teachings and has been influential in causing many Japanese Christians to leave the churches.

These leaders are quoted as saying the effect of the exclusion clause will be the divorcing of native churches from the American mission bodies, which may in the long run be benefited as encouraging the remaining Japanese Christians to stand up supported by foreigners.

According to those "on the inside" not one brand of beer has been sold in Lawrence for several weeks. The price of this beer was raised some time ago in a figure considerably above that asked by "independent" breweries.

All beer sold in Lawrence is claimed, has been distributed through the "czar" of the booze ring and not by the brewer direct. It is also charged that the brewery is not benefit by the recent increase in prices to retailers.

JAP EXCLUSION BILL IS SIGNED BY COOLIDGE

President Approves Immigration Measure to Avoid Row Over 'Emergency Legislation'

alone, the President said, he would have disapproved it without hesitation.

The President's statement follows:

"In signing this bill, which in its main features I heartily approve, I regret the impossibility of severing from it the exclusion provision, which in the light of existing law, affects especially the Japanese.

"I gladly recognize that the enactment of this provision does not imply any change in our sentiment or admiration and cordial friendship for the Japanese people, a sentiment which has had and will continue to have abundant manifestation.

FAVORS OLD AGREEMENT

"The bill rather expresses the determination of the Congress to exercise its prerogative in defining by legislation the control of immigration, instead of leaving it to international arrangements.

"It should be noted that the old example from the exclusion provision government officials, those coming to this country as tourists, or temporarily for business or pleasure, those in transit, seamen, those already resident here and returning from temporary absences, professors, ministers of religion, students, and those who enter solely to carry on trade in pursuance of existing provisions.

"But we have had for many years an understanding with Japan, by which the Japanese government has voluntarily undertaken to prevent the emigration of laborers to the United States, and in view of this historic relation and of the feeling which inspired it, it would have been much better in my judgment, and more effective in the actual control of immigration, if we had continued to invite that co-operation which Japan was ready to give and had thus avoided creating any ground for misapprehension or an unnecessary controversy.

EMERGENCY MEASURE.

"That course would not have derogated from the authority of Congress to deal with the question on any exigency requiring its action.

Here's How New Law Reduces Number of Immigrants

The immigration law provides for a reduction by more than half the number of aliens who may enter the United States during the next three years. The total quota is reduced from 357,801 to 161,990.

Beginning in 1927, further restrictions will go into effect, reducing the number of immigrants to 150,000. Under both the 1924 and 1927 provisions northwestern European countries will be favored over the southeastern and southern countries.

Quotas under the three laws follow:

Nation	Present law	1924	1927
Great Britain	77,342	62,458	91,110
Germany	67,607	50,129	22,107
Italy	42,057	3,889	5,877
Poland	30,979	8,672	4,509
Russia	24,405	1,197	1,902
Sweden	20,042	9,561	3,706
Czecho-Slov	14,357	1,187	1,319
Norway	12,202	6,453	2,433
Rumania	7,419	671	603
Austria	7,342	980	386
France	5,729	3,978	2,763
Denmark	5,619	2,782	1,092
Hungary	5,747	4,488	1,529

Bulgaria, Greece and Spain are given but ten immigrants under the new law for the next three years and would have in 1927 the following quotas:

Bulgaria 82, Greece 536 and Spain 141.

There is scarcely any ground for disagreement as to the result we want, but this method of securing it is unnecessary and deplorable at this time.

"If the exclusion provision stood alone, I should disapprove it without hesitation, if sought in this way at this time. But this bill is a comprehensive measure dealing with the whole subject of immigration and setting up the necessary administrative machinery. The present quota act of 1921 will terminate on June 30 next.

"It is of great importance that a comprehensive measure should take its place and that the arrangements for administration should be provided at once in order to avoid hesitancy and confusion."

Jap Soldiers Voice Threat Against U. S.

Tokio, May 26 (A.P.).—Ten thousand Japanese former service men, who saw an army reservists, took part today in an anti-exclusion demonstration at the national military shrine here, and adopted a resolution asking reservists of the entire country to unite for the sake of their fatherland.

"In view of the nature of the American-Japanese situation," the resolution added, "the Tokio association of reservists declares the determination to forbid at a moment's call the duties of its members as military men."

Shinkichi Iyenaga, noted nationalistic publicist, in an address to the reservists, declared it no longer was possible to reach a satisfactory compromise with America on immigration.

"If history teaches anything," he continued, "an eventual collision between Japan and America on the Pacific is inevitable."

Another speaker, Lieutenant-General Bunjiro Horimouchi, one of the heroes of the Tsingtao campaign, told the ex-service men, "We must be determined to undergo whatever hardships are necessary in avenging the insult which America has done our country."

MEANS' TALE OF DIARY THEFT CHECKED UP

Government Sleuths Relate How Daugherty Witness Was Shadowed

Washington, May 26.—A study of Department of Justice detective methods was embarked upon today by the Senate Daugherty Committee in an effort to shed further light on Gaston B. Means' story of the disappearance of his famous diaries.

Means' papers, by which he had promised to certify some of his sensational testimony before the committee, were delivered by him, he says, to two men who came to his house on March 21, falsely representing themselves as acting for Chairman Brookhart.

Last week Hiram C. Todd, assistant attorney-general in charge of prosecutions against Means, testified that the story could be disproved by operatives of Burns Agency, who reported that no one entered or left Means' house between 6 and 8 p. m. on the night the ruse was said to have been perpetrated.

H. J. Burns, leader of five "shadows" tailing Means, was the first witness today. He said that in following Means the detective squad spent the early part of that night outside the house of Senator Wheeler. He said he saw no one enter Means' house that night.

Fred J. Cox, an attorney of Wadesboro, N. C., testified he entered Means' house at 7 p. m. on the night of March 31 to talk to Means, who he said, had been his friend in college.

Cox said he had come to see Means "about his trouble in New York," and that as he entered the house an automobile was pulling away. Means told him, Cox said, that the Senate committee had decided to hold him and that the car just leaving was taking his papers into Senate custody.

Travis Hoke, a newspaperman, testified that on the same evening he was in the Means' house from about 7 to 7:30 p. m.

"Means said the committee had impounded his diaries and documents that very night."

Buckley Griffin, a New England newspaper writer, testified that he also called on Means between 6 and 8 p. m. on the night of March 31.

WOMAN OF 71 IS MARRIED TO MAN, 44

Now Insane, Guardian Tries for Annulment; Estate of $100,000 Involved

Dr. Ralph O. Brock, veterinarian of No. 81 Robbins Road, Watertown, advised his seventy-one-year-old mother, Mrs. Laura J. Brown, not to marry a year ago, but she slipped off, presumably on a vacation, and married George F. Bdown of Weymouth, thirty years her junior.

Less than two months later Mrs. Bdown was adjudged insane, and a guardian was appointed to care for her interest in an estate valued at $100,000.

This was testified by Dr. Brock today in the Middlesex County Superior court where Chief Justice Hall is hearing a petition brought by Charles W. Hapgood, her guardian, to have the marriage annulled.

Dr. Brock said that he advised his mother that he had reason to believe Brown was trying to get control of her property. He said he told his mother that Brown could get control of one-third of it anyway, but he testified, she went away to Vermont, as he thought, and married Brown on August 20, 1923. The marriage certificate was introduced. It gave Mrs. Brown's age as 51 years. Judge Hall asked Dr. Brock his age. He said he is 44 years old. Judge Hall smiled.

Dr. E. S. Carr of Weymouth, testified that he had treated Mrs. Brown and that she had acted like a seventy-year-old child, asking him to take her to the movies.

Walter S. Heath, a farmer of South Burlington, Vt., gave the operators a hunch on how he thought that Mrs. Brown was at his farm and wanted to be his housekeeper. He said she would ask him in the morning what he wanted for breakfast, and then would give him doughnuts, pie and cereal. He denied any of what he asked for. He said she would come to the field at 9 o'clock in the morning and insist that his wife come in and eat his dinner then.

You could make Hood's old fashioned Ice Cream at home

YOU could duplicate its purity and quality with materials found in the pantry of any well-equipped home. But you can't make it any better. You can't make it more wholesome. You can't make it more delicious.

The simple old-fashioned recipe for Hood's Ice Cream is exactly what Ice Cream was intended to be. Pure cream, sweetened with sugar, flavored with the tempting extracts of ripe fruits, then frozen.

You can pay more than you pay for Hood's, but you can't get higher quality, or greater purity. You can pay less and get into the doubtful areas of imitation and substitution.

Insist on having

HOW TO WIND COILS FOR SUPERHET

Antenna and Oscillator Coils Wound on Same Size Bakelite Forms

Today we will tell you how to wind the coils for the Baby Giant Superheterodyne.

There are two of these, the antenna tuning and the oscillator coil. The former couples the antenna and tuned secondary circuit, and the latter the oscillator number. The other couples the oscillor circuits.

The number, turns and location of windings for these coils have been carefully worked out by experiments in the laboratories of the Comp Appliance Company. If you follow them you will know the set out of balance.

The antenna tuning coil is constructed of Bakelite tubing two inch in outside diameter and three inches long, and 140 inch thick.

ANTENNA COIL.

Draw a line along one side of the tube, beginning from the left hand end drill one hole ¼ of an inch from the end, one hole ¾ of an inch from the end, and one hole 2¾ inches from the end. These holes are to be drilled with a No. 47 twist drill, and they serve as clearance house for 6-32 screws. These holes will be numbered respectively 1, 2 and 3.

Then drill small holes No. 58 drilled ¼ of an inch apart on the above mentioning line between holes No. 1 and 2, these to provide the holes for the oscillator coupling coil. One end of the oscillator coupling coil starts underneath the head of screw No. 1 inside the tube, comes up through to the surface of the tube, makes three turns and goes down through the small hole over to hole No. 2 screw. This No. 2 screw serves as a common connection for the end of the antenna coil and three coils, which are wound on this tube.

One inch from the end of the tube, measuring from the left hand end, drill two No. 58 holes. After placing one end of the wire under the No. 2 screw wind on the coil of 72 turns of wire which will take up 2 7-16 inches at which point another No. 58 hole should be drilled to pass that wire after passing through the inside of the coil and fastening under the head of the screw on the right hand end of the coil.

WIND PAPER.

Now, at the left hand end of the 72 turn coil wind on a strip of smooth brown paper ¼ inch wide with the left hand edge matching up to the left hand end of the above mentioned coil.

This may be held in place with glue or any other adhesive substance except shellac.

After it is firmly in place, start another coil under the head of screw No. 2 and wind on 34 turns of width of the paper. The half turn will bring it exactly opposite on the tube to the point occupied by screw No. 2. Fasten the wire by bringing the end across the coil through a short piece of spaghetti to the screw A pair of silk thread drawn underneath the coil in the conventional manner will serve to hold and prevent the coil from unwinding.

The whole tube after all the winding is placed in position should be given a coat of thin collodion as this makes a very efficient binder.

COIL BINDER.

Holes for mounting should be drilled the same distance from the edge as holes No. 1 and No. 3 and 90 degrees or ¼ way around the tube from these holes.

All wire on this coil is of No. 28 double silk covered.

A short piece of wire should be placed under the head of common screw No. 2 and used to make connection to the panel. Note terminal on this wire in cut. The form of mounting preferred is a long 6-32 screw with a piece of ¼ inch brass tubing and ¾ inch to slip over the screw and used as a spacer.

OSCILLATOR COIL.

To wind the oscillator coil draw a line along the length of a tube and of same dimensions as above, drill a No. 27 hole for the binding screw ¼ inch from each end of the tube.

On this line, beginning from the left hand end of the coil and at a point 1 9-16 inches from the end of the tube drill a No. 58 hole starting with the wire under the head of the first screw, running the wire along the inside of the tube, bringing it to the surface at this last mentioned hole.

Then wind on 84 turns of No. 28 double silk wire and at the finish of the winding drill another No. 58 hole, putting the end of the wire through it and carrying it along inside the tube to the second screw. This furnishes one-half of the oscillator winding.

Now, draw another straight line along the tube ¼ of the way around the circumference from the first two holes and place two holes similar to the first ones ¼ of an inch from each end of the tube. At a point ¾ of an inch from the end of the tube and 1-16 of an inch to one side from line drawn between the two screws, drill a No. 58 hole.

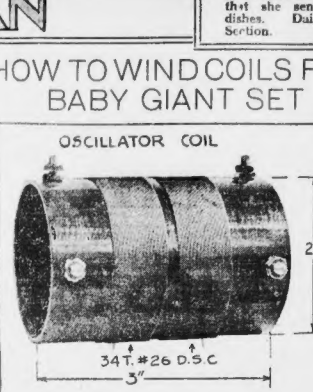
WIRES TRANSPOSED.

Start with the wire under the head of the right hand screw; be very careful that this is followed correctly as the wires are transposed under the coil as with regard to the first coil wound); and carry it along the inside of the tube to the No. 58 hole; then send on 24 turns and drill another No. 58 hole, having the holes displaced slightly so that the wire as it comes down through the tube and is carried along to the left hand binding screw does not come in actual contact with the wire already in place. A distance of about ¼ of an inch between these two wires where they run along parallel but in opposite directions on the inside of the coil should be sufficient.

Give the whole tube and winding a coat of collodion as you did with the antenna tuning coil.

Small hexagon nuts can be used on the screws to keep them in place with a second one to hold the wire in position with which the coil is connected to the rest of the circuit.

HOW TO WIND COILS FOR BABY GIANT SET



SUPERHETERODYNE COILS

Two coils forms are needed for the Baby Giant Superheterodyne as shown above. These may be wound by the builder, or may be purchased complete. Two-inch bakelite tubing is used for the forms, winding instructions must be carefully followed, as they are the result of careful study.

ON THE AIR LAST NIGHT

By THE LISTENER

I enjoyed particularly impressive program from WNAC yesterday morning. It was a broadcast of the Memorial Field Service at Fenway Park.

Judging by the commotion I estimated that at least six different bands were playing on the field. The firing of a volley sounded very natural, and with a little imagination you could picture the beauty of the whole affair.

A very interesting sermon was given of Rev. George P. O'Connor, Director of the Catholic Civilians Bureau. His voice was clear and easily understood, and the acoustics at Fenway Park must be particularly good, if the audience there heard the speaking any better than we radio fans did.

Had another evening's solid pleasure with the Fadettes last night. WTAT has something in the Fadettes with which they can be justly proud. It isn't very often you hear an orchestra like it over your radio.

Was Walking down Tremont street yesterday, and got a glimpse of the new aerial on Tremont Temple. Upon investigation I found that the transmitting equipment was practically ready to be put into use, and it won't be long now before we would hear Dr. Massee's familiar voice from his own station.

Another very good reason why the pursuit of "long distance" will be popular from now on is on account of Daylight Saving time, and the fact that the days are getting so long. In order to get the Western stations with any degree of success we would have to not only wait for darkness, but allow for the difference in time between there and here.

However, in consideration of the excellent quality of our local programs, we don't expect to miss much. Can afford to wait patiently till next Winter comes around before fishing after distance records again.

At 8:55 WBF, the United Fruit station, atop the Board of Trade Building, sent a message to the British steamship Scythia on the 600 meter wave. WBF has a very noticeable harmonic on this wave, which is strongest at about 360 meters.

His transmission of this message caused [illegible] code interference for a few minutes on WGI's program. WGI at this particular moment was broadcasting a xylophone solo.

I had to depend on WJAR for my Capitol Theatre last night, as the signals from WCAP and WEAF were very weak. WJAR was fair, excepting for some overlapping between him and Medford Hillside. Wouldn't it be wonderful if that 360 meter wave wasn't hammered so much?

At 9:14 WBF opened up with code again, and blotted into another xylophone solo from Amrad. On account of the fact that xylophone music reproduces so well at Amrad, I wanted particularly to hear the selection. Of course I can read the code, but prefer to do so when it is unaccompanied by music.

WBZ had some good piano music and solos last night. Guess everybody in my neighborhood thought the same thing, too, judging from the squeals and howls they gave me from tuning to WBZ's wave.

Met Jack Dodge of the Shepard operating staff yesterday afternoon. He was out at the circus grounds in Andrews Square conversing earnestly with one of the circus officials.

After he finished I got him one side and learned that WNAC is planning to put about $1000 worth of equipment into operation at the circus grounds today, in order to do a real job. They tell me on account of the widely separated locations in a circus, it makes broadcasting very difficult.

CIRCUS WILL BE BROADCAST

WNAC, The Shepard Stores, will broadcast Sells-Floto circus—the big show and side show—this evening, starting at 7:40 p. m., direct from the circus grounds at Andrews Square.

First there will be a concert by the Sells-Floto band—then will come the opening of the big show with the band and chorus—then a visit to the side show where the side audiences will meet the "freaks"—then back to the big show where both the Sells-Floto and the special clown band will perform.

Lay in a supply of peanuts and pink lemonade, radio fans, and tune in on 278 metres for the circus tonight.

LYNN STATION TO BE OPENED TONIGHT

Mayor McPherres and "Bob" Emery to Speak at Station WCSR

Mayor Harland McPherres and announcer "Bob" Emery of WGI at Medford will be speakers tonight at the official opening of Lynn's first radio broadcasting station in the Strand Theatre.

The new station will broadcast daily from now on afternoons from 2:45 to 4:15 and evenings from 8:30 to 9:30. The call letters are [illegible] WCSR and the wave length is 246.

The transmitter, which is a portable one, will be set up on the stage of the theatre, so that the broadcasting will be seen by the audience. The theatre orchestra and soloists will be broadcast.

The station will be strictly a local one, as it is rated at five watts.

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

Radio receiving conditions tonight will be good from stations broadcasting in the entire Eastern part of the country.

Stations in the West and Middle West will not be so good because of an area of low barometric pressure which extends over these sections.

You Can't Cure an Anaemic Business With an Anaemic Circulation!

YOUR advertising is a tacit admission that you want more circulation for your wares. But you can't get it from a newspaper that is in the same fix that you are! How can you expect more circulation from a newspaper that can't get it for itself?

Advertising is analogous to an operation for blood transfusion—only a robust newspaper specimen can do you any good. You cannot increase the vitality of your own business by associating with invalids in the newspaper business. After all, you are not advertising to give your business a rest but to wake it up, and only great circulation can do it. Buying limited circulation is like putting your business in a sanitarium where the bills increase faster than the ills subside.

The sole object of advertising is to reach the greatest possible percentage of the people, at the smallest possible per capita cost, in the quickest possible time. And the Boston American, with a Recorded Home-Delivered Circulation of 60,886 copies and an Indicated Home-Going Circulation of 180,000 more, is the greatest driving force that can be harnessed to any business, national or local, that seeks to tap the buying power of New England.

CABARET BEAUTY IS FREED AS SLAYER

MRS. BEULAH ANNAN

SHOT MAN DEAD WHO ATTACKED HER, SHE SAID

Chicago, May 26.—"It was the baby, not me."

Thus did Beulah Annan, expectant mother, and the most beautiful woman who ever faced a Chicago jury on a murder charge, characterize the reasons which influenced her acquittal. The twelve men who had heard her take the stand admit that she killed Harry Kalstedt, because she was going to become a mother and he tried to attack her, brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Back home with her husband in the same apartment where she entertained Kalstedt, strangled with him and killed him, while her husband was at work in a garage, Beulah looked far different from the nervous young woman who wrung her hands and shifted about uneasily in her chair during the closing hours of the trial. Shaking her head and relating in detail single, Mrs. Anna stood erect at her husband and other relatives and said she had learned a lesson.

"I am going to be a devoted wife from now on," she declared. "I am going to forget these terrible days. I am going to prepare for my baby's arrival and I have sworn an oath that I never again will do anything which might cause reproach to attach itself to my name or to my child's name. The most intense longing which I have is that I prove myself to be a good mother and a true wife. I want to show the whole world what kind of a woman I really am, down in my heart."

Turks Get Look at Faces of Women! Oh, Terrible!

Constantinople, May 26.—Marriages, 7,000; divorces, 9,000.

These are the net figures on the domestic records of Constantinople so far this year.

The record was under the regime of the "New Woman's Freedom," which did away with the veil, and the harem, and all the other attributes and symbols of woman's slavery.

The authorities are in despair to stem the tide or find an explanation for it. There are some irreverent persons—men, of course—who blame the veil, or rather the absence of it. They say:

"What beauty and mystery one could dream of as hidden behind the veil! And behold, what the removal of the veil revealed!"

The divorcees, they say, are just the reaction of shattered illusions.

Woman Says Man She Had Spurned Caused Her Arrest as Bootleg

Mrs. Catherine Spence, bobbed haired mother of four children, blames her arrest as a bootlegger extraordinary to her refusal to dispense "petting" along with moonshine.

Mrs. Spence, who lives at No. 61 Walnut street, Malden, was indignant when she read a police report that it was her zeal in soliciting business that led to her undoing.

SCORNED SUITOR.

"It was no State street broker, angered at attempt of mine to secure him as a customer, that landed me in the clutches of the law," she asserted.

"What really caused my arrest was a double-crossing plot. The man responsible for the trap has offices in Washington street. His animosity was the result of threats I made to tell my husband of his unwelcome attentions.

"The man who caused my arrest tried to make love to me. He pursued me with phone calls, begging me to love him. My refusal to meet his advances enraged him.

FEARED EXPOSURE.

"Fearful that I would tell my husband, he thought to forestall me by squealing himself.

"He bought my liquors and he paid for them. It was through the sale of them to him that I met him. He is a man of family. Yet, with evil eyes, he begged me repeatedly to love him.

"For revenge, using the name of a friend of mine, through the police he asked me to have some liquor delivered to an office on State street. There was to be a big party. The liquor was delivered to the police and so was I."

PHONE RATE BOOST TO HIT ALL

Overhead in Stores to Cause Rise in All General Prices

That battered weekly pay envelope of yours has got to go one more round.

Nickels and dimes and quarters—to the amount of $1,500,000 extra—will have to be squeezed from the family chequer, beginning June 1, because the 9 per cent. dividend of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company is not "a reasonable return."

If you live in Greater Boston, you'll pay more for your household commodities and wearing apparel, because of the "overhead" of this big department story in Boston will be augmented by an increase of from 200 to 400 per cent. in their telephone rates.

If you are a suburbanite living in Beverly, North Reading, Wilmington, Lynnfield Centre, Marblehead, Natick, Peabody, Salem and towns in that radius your Boston telephone calls Thursday at 12 cents, will cost you 25 cents.

Calls from Medway, Saltonte, Magnolia, Andover and similar distances, now costing 20 cents, will cost 30 cents.

The present 25-cent calls, as Gloucester, Haverhill, Bridgewater, etc., will cost 35 cents for the same length of time.

These are some of the results that follow the new "phone rates asked by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, calling for an increase on private lines, toll-calls and private branch exchanges.

Incidentally, the new rates will add to Boston's distinction by giving it the highest phone rates in the country, according to the admission of Vice-President Clarence G. McDavitt of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, before the Public Utilities Commission.

MILLION AND HALF.

Of the million and a half increase, 4½ per cent. will be handed along to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the guiding hand of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., and owner of 58 per cent. of its stock.

Two million dollars—made up of local nickels and dimes—some of those that didn't come back when you jiggled the hook—slipped into the pockets of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. last year.

This financial bouquet was for "advice on the rate problem" and for the accounting system of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company.

On the witness stand, however, Vice-President McDavitt assured Attorney Silverman that executives of his concern were quite competent to give and take their own advice, and it was proved that the interstate Commerce Commission gave the telephone company its accounting system.

The contract of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company to buy all its supplies from the Western Electric Company also was gone into.

It was learned that the millions of dollars that the New England concern says every year for its supplies really go to the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, inasmuch as the latter corporation owns 100 per cent. of the stock of the Western Electric Company.

"We need the money," declare officials of the New England Telephone & Telegraph.

But extreme poverty did not prevent it from paying its annual dividend of 9 per cent., or the American Telephone & Telegraph Company its dividend of 9 per cent., not to mention the 7 per cent. dividends of the Western Electric Company.

HOW IT WILL HIT

Here is how the increase will hit every one: Onward in the city, serving department stores, wholesale and retail grocery houses, physicians' suites and the big buildings which house every branch of local business:

OLD RATE.	NEW RATE.
Cordless sw'gard $1.50	$4.50
10 lines or less	5.00
11 to 30 lines	10.00
31 to 60 lines	16.00
61 to 100 lines	5.00
101 to 150 lines	6.00
151 to 200 lines	7.00 31 to 250 lines. 24.00
201 to 250 lines	8.00
251 to 300 lines	9.00

These figures represent a jump of several hundred per cent. in many instances over the recent increase of 10 per cent. granted in New York.

COST OF PHONE STRIKE.

In the hearing before the Public Utilities Commission, the telephone company has been openly charged with demanding the increase to defray the cost of the last telephone strike, estimated to have been $2,200,000.

"If the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company had taken the cost of the strike from its dividends—charging the loss up to the stockholders—there would be no need for a call for funds now," charges the Retail Board of the Chamber of Commerce.

At any rate, according to the heads of local concerns, who appeared before the Public Utilities Commission, everyone living in Greater Boston or the adjacent communities served by it, will, in some measure, great or small, contribute to million and a half dollars levy demanded by the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co.

ARREST BOY FOR PERJURY IN THE HOFFMAN TRIAL

New York, May 26.—Harry Edalman, boy at a Fort Richmond, Staten Island, motion picture theatre, was arrested today on a charge of perjury after he had testified at the trial of Harry L. Hoffman, former movie operator at the theatre, for the murder of Mrs. Bessie Smith on March 25.

The perjury charge was lodged against Edkins, it was said, because of discrepancies in the testimony he gave at the trial today and his statements before the grand jury which indicted Hoffman.

James F. Taylor, manager of the motion picture theatre at Stapleton, contributed today to the testimony designed by the State to shatter the alibi of Hoffman, a former employe of the theatre. Taylor asserted that he did not see Hoffman at the theatre at any time on March 25, the day of the crime.

R. C. Parker, another movie operator, testified Saturday that he and Hoffman "framed up" the alibi which had placed the defendant in the theatre at the time of the murder.

Alfred M. Norton, counsel for Hoffman, made an effort today to prove that circumstances which seem to incriminate Hoffman actually point just as strongly to Horatio J. Sharrett, a Fort Richmond realty dealer, thus far considered beyond suspicion.

Second Airplane May Be Sent to Aid Men on 30,000 000-Ft Log Jam

Montreal, May 26 (I.N.S.).—A second airplane may be sent to the aid of 50 lumberjacks, stranded behind a 30,000,000-foot log jam on the east branch of the Gatineau River, said E. H. Sterling, who is here to direct relief work.

One plane set out yesterday to learn the plight of the men and report back what measures must be taken to relieve them.

The log drive became lost last week. Sterling said it probably was held up by shallow water and that lumberjacks would need supplies and dynamite to release the jam.

President Coolidge was presented today a certificate of honorary membership in the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. William N. McKenna, captain commanding, Colonel Willis W. The certificate, executed on real sheepskin, was written by Governor Channing H. Cox of Massachusetts. President Coolidge was once commander-in-chief of the organization.

AVON MAN IS FOUND SLAIN IN HIS BARN

Avon, May 26.—The finding of the body of George A. French, sixty years old, retired farmer, on the floor of his barn, his skull fractured and his neck broken, has furnished a murder mystery that has stirred this community.

The manner in which French was slain is unknown, as there were no instruments of assault found near the body. A truck which was driven into the farm yard early in the morning and driven away a short time later is the principal clew upon which the police hope to run down the slayer.

The last seen of French was when he walked from a poolroom in Avon square about midnight.

French, who lived with his aged father, Alpheus, and a housekeeper, Mrs. Jennie Pole, never carried any considerable sum of money and the robbers theory has been practically eliminated from the case.

The police are inclined to believe that rum runners may have had a hand in the slaying of the farmer as it is possible that French, returning home after midnight, unwittingly interfered with bootleggers and he was killed in order to make certain of his silence.

Kasumigaura, Japan, May 26.—Back at Kasumigaura today after two days of strenuous entertainment and ceremony in Tokio, the American Round-the-World Fliers devoted themselves to work on their planes, preparing for the next hop southward. They hope to leave the southern end of the main Japanese island tomorrow or Wednesday.

They have only one more stop in Japan after Kushimoto, that at Kagoshima, whence they will make a 500-mile jump over water to Shanghai.

Out of 117 women students at Boston University College of Liberal Arts, who started out the year by living up to strict training rules laid down by the Girls' Athletic Association of the college, seventy-one won awards for their faithfulness.

Business transacted, in addition to election of officers, included reports of officers, chairmen of departments and county chairmen. Candidates for nomination at the September primaries were guests at a luncheon following the business meeting.

Among the speakers were: Lieutenant-Governor Alvan T. Fuller, Louis A. Coolidge, Horace A. Keith, James Jackson, Frederick W. Dallinger, Frederic W. Cook, Charles L. Burrill, Jay R. Benton, B. Loring Young and Frank G. Allen.

When Marie disappeared she took a suitcase filled with clothing and about $30 in cash she had saved. The mother is grief stricken.

TIGERS HELP SOX INTO FIRST PLACE BY LICKING YANKS

JACK QUINN TO TWIRL FINAL

lead to the belief that the team is playing above its normal speed. Lee Fohl, wonder manager, is naturally pleased, but he actually isn't surprised.

"We're just going along easily," he explains, "and the other fellows will have to find a lot of stuff they haven't showed yet to knock us back much. The Red Sox have plenty of confidence, and that's half the battle with any team in a tight race."

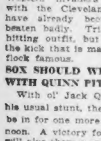
The Sox conclude entertaining the Western invaders this afternoon, with the Cleveland Indians, who have already been beaten twice, beaten badly. Tris Speaker has a hitting outfit, but it doesn't carry the kick that is making the Fenway flock famous.

SOX SHOULD WIN TODAY WITH QUINN PITCHING.

With ol' Jack Quinn ready to do his usual stunt, the Indians seem to be in for one more unpleasant afternoon. A victory for the inhabitants will give them a record of nine wins in twelve starts against the West, which is a performance that hasn't been equalled in these parts for years and years.

Not since the old Sox, who were then being sold away, managed to win the pennant in the war year of '18, has a Boston club figured even slightly in the A. L. race. It's a welcome change for the fans, who have a pleasant Summer in prospect, after sad and lean years.

For the Braves, as well as the Sox, have been playing good ball, and are only a matter of four games from the ten of the other league. Said Braves come home from the West Tuesday, to play a series at the Wigwam with the Phillies. That should start them off properly for their home stand.



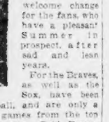
Jack Quinn

But the Sox just now own the town, and are quite likely to be awarded a current possession.

BOB QUINN FEELS CLUB WILL STAY UP.

President Robert Quinn, who is not at all a foolish optimist, is not declaring that his ball club is going to stay right up in the race.

"We aren't claiming any pennants," says the Prexy, "or anything of the kind. But we will figure in the race. This not a morning glory team. When a bunch of youngsters go wild in the Spring they can be expected to explode sooner or later.



Lee Fohl

"But when a crowd of veterans get hammering the ball, and playing steadily together, that sort of thing is nothing but a good habit. Chase like Flagstead and Wambsganss and Harris and Veach will hit any time, anywhere, and we have been fortunate to get them going so quickly.

"There's no cause for any worry about a big slump. Our real hitters are consistent .300 swatters, and with the chance to raise ructions in the race in front of them, they can be expected to go right along at a little bit better than their average rate."

IKE BOONE IS GOING AT A TERRIFIC PACE

The club boss, like every other Bostonian, is delighted with the smashing propensities of Ike Boone, who will be pushing Harry Heilmann for the batting lead in the course of another week, if he can keep up the terrific pace of the last ten days.

Ike is a great natural hitter, and from an unknown rookie has developed into one of the major sensations in less than a month. He would bring a mighty big price if he was put on the market just now, but there isn't the slightest danger of that.

No batter can be expected to fatten the average much after he gets to the .400 mark, but it's begun to look as if the large Ike would linger around that figure. A lot of good pitchers have tried everything on him, apparently hasn't any

LAWRENCE IN BIG GAME AT DORCHESTER

Dorchester will get a taste of high class baseball tonight.

Joe Kendrick's Town Team is billed to battle Lawrence, K. of C. at the Town Field. This is by far the best attraction of the season for Dorchester fans, and is sure to attract a large crowd.

They are doing things in a big way out in Dorchester this season. When the Twilight League declared that Dorchester was not going to get a team because the fans didn't have the right spirit, Joe Kendricks told them they were dead wrong. Furthermore he asserted he would prove his contention. He organized the Town Team and made bookings with the best teams in the State.

Of course Joe has had to guarantee the Lawrence nine a large sum to get it to go to Dorchester to play. He agreed to do this as he knows that Dorchester fans are loyal, want high-class baseball and are willing to back a first-class team to the limit.

Lawrence has a hang-up team, one of the best in the State. It will be met by serious opposition tonight as Kendrick has reorganized his team and has an outfit that is at least the equal of any of the twilight nines.

who will collect the most fame out of this hectic season.

RED SOX LEAVE FOR PHILLY TONIGHT

After today's final with the Indians the Sox go over to Philadelphia for three collisions with the Mackmen. It was in the Quaker village that the Fohls started their wild career little less than a month ago by slugging right through an entire series. There's no reason except Ed Rommel to suppose that they can't repeat the stunt.

The latter's return for the holiday Friday, playing a double bill with the Senators, who are also primed for the week-end matinees. That will mean a lot of money for the owners, who can appreciate the same as they haven't been getting a bit of real weather throughout the big winning streak.

After the Senatorial mixup, the Sox trickle away into the West for the big road test, a succession of series that will really determine just what kind of a factor this club is going to be in a race that shapes up as one of the most exciting ever put on the well known league. The Chi[illegible] opens in St. Louis.

GREATEST GOLFERS WILL GATHER FOR CLASSIC

America's greatest golf classic, the National open championship, starts tomorrow, at the Worcester Country Club in the East, and the Oak Park Club in the West. At both spots there are gathered today the greatest of American golfers, seeking the trial which has at its end Golf's Golden Fleece.

The scoring at both places will be watched with unusual interest by followers of the royal and ancient game. For the pay being in the nature of qualifying rests, the results will determine to a certain extent, what may happen at Oakland Hills in the championship proper, to be played early in June.

Holding qualifying rounds is something new in open championships, being tried to whittle down the field in the finals. It will to no extent affect the numbers to gather at the chosen spots in the preliminary skirmishes, for close to 200 are entered to play at each place.

When the 36 holes have been played on Tuesday and Wednesday, this unwieldy force will have been reduced to approximately 80 of the top-notch stars.

Worcester, unquestionably, will furnish the higher grade of entertainment. The eastward migration of the Western high lights will bring this about. New York, in particular, will furnish an unusual collection of golf notables.

There will be Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood, Gene Sarazen, match play champion of the P. G. A., and former open champ, Johnny Farrell, one of the young and rising stars. Wilfred Reedy, runner-up king, and Bobby Cruickshank, who tied for the title last year with Jones.

It is generally conceded that with such an array of talent in one district alone, and with other centres such as Washington, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Boston to draw from, there will be a grave scramble at Worcester during the two May days.

The amateurs in this section will be headed by Jesse Guilford and Clark Hodder.

Considering the fact that the championship proper will be contested on the outskirts of Detroit, this week's qualifying trials will in a way resemble the real showdown itself, and it offers New England enthusiasts an opportunity to get a close-up of the greats, and near-greats in action. And that hasn't happened hereabouts for several years.

Everyone is welcome to come early, stay late, romp everywhere, but keep out of the way, providing $2 is paid for admission.

The Mattapan Town Team having one of the strongest teams in the State is looking for games with fast nines in New England. Games are [illegible] for May 30, a. m. and p. m. Call Dorchester 2448-W between 6 and 7 evenings.

BUSY WEEK FOR TWI LEAGUE

The Chelsea Millstream nine is leading the Greater Boston Twilight League, having garnered five wins, while Lawrence Independents are tied with the same average although they have won but three games.

Gene Driscoll

With a total of thirteen games booked for the week a change in the standing is sure, as both the Millstream and Lawrence nines will clash.

Tonight at Somerville, the Medford Telephone team will clash with the Dilbey Post nine. William "Buck" O'Brien, of Red Sox fame in the days when the Sox were playing baseball as they are today, will go to the rubber for Manager Carrigan of the Somerville outfit, while his opponent on the mound will be Cy Morgan, former Braves' hurler.

South Boston folks will see a good game when the North Cambridge team lines up against the South Boston club tonight. Manager Jim Norwan is boring to get going on the right foot this evening with a win. Either Lee Andrews or Jim Sullivan will be in the mound for the Peninsular district lads.

The team from this University City will have Dr. Gaw, Jimmy Fitzgerald or Jim Kelly to do their shooting up to the plate.

Johnny Morrissey will hurl to Reading tonight. His Consnet All-Stars will play the Reading Town team on the Reading pasture.

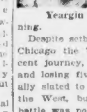
BRAVES ON WAY BACK TO THE WIGWAM

Buffalo, May 26.—Davy Bancroft and his band of Boston Braves are speeding homeward from their initial invasion of the West, hopeful of resuming a winning stride during the series starting with the lowly Phillies, who are booked for a double-header on the Allston diamond tomorrow. They are due in the Hub this evening.



Yeargin

Despite setbacks at St. Louis and Chicago the Tribers enjoyed a decent journey, winning seven games and losing five. They were originally slated to play sixteen times in the West, but owing to rain one battle was postponed at Pittsburgh, two at St. Louis and one at Chicago.

Bannin's outfit encountered alright pitching yesterday, getting only five scattered wallops and three passes off the veteran Elmer Jacobs, a right-hander, who labored for the Phils, Pirates and Cardinals ten seasons ago. Jacobs, who starred for Seattle the last four years, hurled the first shutout of the season for Killefer's staff, who romped to an 11 to 0 triumph.

OLYMPIC SKATER IS BARRED AS PRO

New York, May 26.—Harry Kaskel of Chicago, Ill., a member of the American Olympic ice skating team, was indefinitely suspended by the International Skating Union of America when charges of professionalism brought against him were sustained at a special meeting.

William Steinmetz of Chicago, Richard Donovan of Johnson City, N. Y., and Joe Moore of New York City were brought up on similar charges but were exonerated.

It was charged that Kaskel demanded excessive expenses for his trip to St. John, New Brunswick, Lake Placid and Saranac Lake.

New England Enters Its Star Athletes in Olympic Trials

The entries of eight of the outstanding athletes of the New England district have been received by the American Olympic Committee for the eastern sectional track and field trials to be held at the Yankee Stadium on Saturday afternoon, June 7.

Jake Driscoll.

Jake Driscoll, former national intercollegiate 440-yard champion, heads the list. He will run in the 400-meter race in which he will meet among others his old rivals, Allan Woodring, last year's intercollegiate champion for the quarter, and J. Count Taylor, the old Princeton star.

The other New England entries are as follows: Lloyd Hahn, for 1,500 meters; Robert E. Brown, former Cornell two miler, who will compete in the 5,000-meter race; E. G. Gourdin, formerly of Harvard and present holder of the world's record for the running broad jump; Walter Young, North Adams Y. M. C. A., in the 10,000-meter run; A. W. Bell, 10,000 meter walk; J. J. Sullivan, 400-meter hurdles, and Fred Tootell, hammer throw.

All-Stars Defeat Tigers

Kelley's All Stars defeated the Boston Tigers at the C. J. Lee Park by the score of 7 to 5. The fielding of McMahon and the batting of Connell and Lonergan featured for Kelley's team.

Connell and O'Brien were the battery for Kelley's, while Daniels, Dunnes and Williams worked for the Tigers.

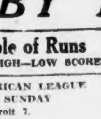
B. C. PLAYS GEORGETOWN TODAY; PURPLE FRIDAY

Boston College approaches its baseball objective this week when it meets Holy Cross at Worcester in the first of the annual three-game series. Georgetown today, St. Michael's Wednesday and Williams on Saturday make it a busy week all around for the Eagle.

B. C., though still suffering from the two defeats of the year, is confident that it will this time knock off the Purple jinx which seems to be present at every Fenton Field meeting. Holy Cross appears weaker, if any stock may be taken in their appearance against Georgetown.



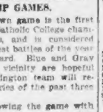
Owen Carroll

A slight comparison of the teams may be gained when the Eagle faces the Hilltoppers this afternoon at Alumni Field.

FIRST OF CATHOLIC COLLEGE CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES.

The Georgetown game is the first of the annual Catholic College championship games, and is considered one of the biggest battles of the year on the B. C. card. Blue and Gray alumni in the vicinity are hopeful that the Washington team will repeat their victories of the past three years.

The day following the game with the Purple, the Eagles' tackle, William at Williamson. In both this and the big holiday battle will undergo considerable change. The second base problem, opened when Captain "Tommy" Foley left the ranks, was met into the outfield, is still bothering the team.



Tommy Phillips

Hank Finnegan and Jack Brosnan were both used on the keystone sack, but were not the right cogs in the machine. Ray Finnegan took charge next, and was displaced by Tommy McIntyre, former H. C. High player.

McIntyre looked good, was a heavy hitter, but cracked in the game against Yale. At present it looks as though Ray Finnegan will be the choice against the Purple. The catching berth is also unsettled, as Ward is suffering with a split thumb.

Mullowney will do the pitching, having won six games in his first year of college baseball, while McCrehan will be held in readiness in case the Brookline youngster weakens.

East Boston Seeks Game

Owing to a cancellation, the strong East Boston A. A. is without a game for May 30. Any strong semi-pro team desiring a good attraction for that and July 4th, call E. B. 2203-M between 4-7 p. m. Ask for Americo Vazza.

Most of Industrial Leaders in Wall Street Transactions Score Gains

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Well, calamities are not coming as thick and fast as the pessimists have been predicting.

May not the following facts be significant?

Passage of the bonus bill was to be the signal for something resembling a panic, we were told. The bill was passed, but nothing of the kind has occurred.

The whole business and industrial structure was being supported by confident hopes that thoroughgoing tax relief would be speedily ordered by Congress, the alarmists declared. Thorough-going tax relief has been blocked out of the bygone bill now before Congress and there certainly is no prospect of any immediate relief worthy of the name. Yet no dire collapse has been precipitated.

The pessimists have been warning us that at least a mild panic was impending in the stock market. The facts: The average quotation for stocks advanced, and bonds also improved, with the best issues of all. Liberty Bonds reaching new high prices.

* * *

We would be in a veritable maelstrom of political excitement by the end of May, the gloomy prophets loudly proclaimed. The end of May finds the political atmosphere extraordinarily calm. Indeed, rarely has this country witnessed such lack of excitement within a few weeks of Presidential nominations.

* * *

Europe, instead of going to the bow-wows, as freely predicted, persists in evolving improvement in one country after another. And the leaders of the reparations movement about to take office in France have let it be known that they are eager to have the Dawes plan of settlement adopted as speedily as practicable—a development of supreme importance.

* * *

The United States was going to be seething with atrocious inflation by this time, according to the prophets of disaster. The truth in their prices have been quietly moving towards lower and firmer ground, the broad tendency being toward equalization among different classes of commodities.

* * *

Prices of automobiles, it was as clear as daylight to the pessimists, would be pushed this Spring by lowing the delay in the Spring rush for new cars. The only price now noted is that which was an advance, announced by the company that turns out the second largest number of cars in America.

* * *

Banking conditions also are in league with the confirmation of catastrophe. The percentage of reserves has risen and interest rates, both for short and long loans, have turned in favor of the borrowers, thus encouraging enterprise.

* * *

Of course, there are flies in the business ointment—flies which are a time when there were not. But the business ointment has refused to become rancid. It is not even stale.

* * *

Wall Street gentlemen have an axiom to the effect that it is time to switch when too many people join their side of the market.

Too many people have become bearish on business.

TIPS FOR ECONOMICAL TRAVELERS

Although a trip to Europe is three days of expensive living is supposed to be a luxury, a person of moderate means will be able this Summer to cross the Atlantic and see the sights at almost prewar figures.

An American tourist, who is planning to visit the Empire exhibition in London and incidentally to see something of the English country side, has discovered that by traveling on a one-cabin steamer at almost the minimum fare he can make the round trip for less than $100, which means from New York to England and return. He has allowed himself about $200 or more for expenses in England and has calculated that this amount will be sufficient to cover sightseeing in the country and London, with the cost of living left out of the reckoning. It will also include visits to the Empire Exhibition and lectures in the various side shows. According to his reckoning $600 will cover the entire cost of his five weeks' holiday.

BERMUDA JUNE SAILINGS INCREASED.

The Furness Bermuda Line announces that owing to the increase in advance bookings, two additional sailings will be made to Bermuda during the month of June.

Heretofore, sailings during June have been limited to only two days, as the regular eight and nine day summer vacation tours, with sailings twice weekly, do not begin until July.

June has proved such a delightful month with the Bermuda visitors that the Furness Bermuda Line has increased its sailings as above noted to enable June visitors to enjoy eight or nine day vacations at such time.

The announced dates of these sailings from New York are June 3rd, 7th, 11th, 14th, 21st and 24th.

HEAVY TOURIST TRAVEL PROPHESIED FOR MAINE.

Every indication, as this is written, is that the tide of tourist travel to Maine will be greater this Summer than for many years. No longer are disputed vital Maine as a great vacation States—and, back of its gracious hospitality, it has much to offer in the tangible of life. Gatherings of hotel men, and of others who have made the entertainment of the public a business, with careful study, predict a Summer as previously unequalled for Metropolitan visitors. Maine is paying more attention to Maine's seductive charms, and to her storied past than ever before, and the widespread publicity cannot fail to purchase a gratifying effect.

All parts of the vacation paradise are penetrated by the Main Central's network of rails, and fast trains from Washington, Philadelphia and New York bring the great centers very near.

Cotton Mills Not All "Moving South"

Forty-Eight-Hour Movement and Proposed Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution May Silence Calamity Howlers

The men and women employed in New England cotton mills, most of them on part time just at present, have had so much pessimism poured into their minds recently by calamity howlers that they may be glad of a note or two along more hopeful lines.

Here they are, three of them:

1—Operatives of the cotton mills in North Carolina are organizing a campaign for a 48-hour week.

2—Latimer W. Ballou, of Woonsocket, tells the Pawtucket Kiwanis Club that the boom in Southern cotton manufacturing has "collapsed."

3—The National Child Labor Committee meets this week in Washington in the hope of spurring the Senate to concur with the action of the House in passing a resolution in favor of the constitutional amendment prohibiting child labor.

In connection with the last of these items, it will be remembered that the House recently passed the Child Labor resolution by a vote of 297 to 69.

If children had votes, we know what the Senate would do.

Cotton mill workers in North Carolina will learn a few things about State Legislatures before they get their 48-hour law, but their agitation cannot be regarded by their brothers and sisters in New England as anything but a hopeful sign.

Now let us all sit in for a minute with the Kiwanis Club, at Pawtucket, and listen to Mr. Ballou:

Twelve years ago the Southern people were peaceable, happy and not working much. The war came, conditions changed. Prices of cotton went up. Southern mills began making money. They started campaigns. Textile shows were held. An aggressive spirit became manifest. . . . But position is not everything. . . .

Conditions change, and the absorption of white help is one of the factors. The Southern mill owner does not want "alien" help. But the help he is employing now will in time become aware of conditions in other parts of the country and begin to demand them for themselves.

Climatic conditions are against the South. There is not that snap to the air which brings out the efficiency characteristic of the North.

This is where the North has the advantage. We can turn out better products. In fact, we have been doing so, and our reputation, along with the financial resources which have been building up to take care of such a period will sustain us through this crisis.

No American in any State likes to hear of the "collapse" of a business boom in any other State. No sensible and patriotic resident of New England has anything but good wishes for the States and the people of the South. There are signs, however, that men who gloomily picture the textile industries of New England packing up and moving overnight to Dixie are either talking through their hats or talking with the purpose of frightening folks.

Don't let them frighten you.

France Sets Us Right

And We Must Not Expect Pay

When this country, in its fitful fever of war, was lending billions to anybody in Europe that would take them it little knew how that lending would be considered later by its beneficiaries.

Read what Le Temps, a Paris newspaper that represents the government, says about the ten million dollars that our Congress appropriated to feed starving women and children in Germany:

"When the United States sends $10,000,000 to Germany, France is benefited in two ways—Germany is in a better position to pay reparations, and the American government, which is the creditor of France, certainly cannot expect France to pay it money to lend to the Germans."

That statement is perfectly clear, for the French always write clearly. It means that if the United States presumes to spend ten millions of its own money to help starving women and children in Germany, it must not expect France to pay money that the United States lent to France in the war. A good many here did not expect much in the way of payment anyway.

The United States has not even requested payment of the interest or principal of the French debt, allowing the money that we lent to France to be used by the French to build up the greatest war machine that Europe has ever beheld. Surely if this country can allow five billions of its money to lie idle in France, to be spent on a war machine, the French might treat good-naturedly our using ten millions of our own money to feed starving people in Germany.

But war, and its aftermath, twists men's judgment.

Waitresses at $6 a Day

That's Ford's Idea

You know that Henry Ford bought the Wayside Inn at Sudbury, Massachusetts, because of the interesting historical association connected with it. One thing would surprise the old ladies and gentlemen that used to go to the Inn in the early days if they could come back now, and that is the payroll of the Inn as Henry Ford runs it. In fact, the young ladies that work at the Inn are about as much surprised as their ancestors would have been.

Henry Ford, who believes with Abraham Lincoln that should be no discrimination against women, applies the Ford system of wages to the young ladies that wait on make up the beds and help wash the dishes.

England young lady that got $4 a week before Inn now gets $5 a day. That's the lowest ways, and it is going to be increased to $6 with his general plan.

ge from the days when they were t only one mechanic in the United gland carpenter, was able to earn year round—and he paid his rent mily on that money.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON SAVING THE WORLD BY WORK

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE is no theory of life.

The pen is mightier than the sword, but the axe and the foot rule are mightier still.

The final decision of all issues, social, educational, commercial and religious, rests with the working class. Universities grind out their theories, Parliaments make laws, courts hand down decisions, churches establish creeds, philosophers form their systems and poets utter their visions, but the slow old world never knows whether they are true or false until the bricklayer and the plumber gets through with them. Theories, laws, court decisions, creeds, philosophic systems and poems must all pass in between the hammer and the anvil.

Nature is all facts. She has no laws save those she awakens in the thinker. There is no theory of life. Life is just one thing after another, as the saying goes. The sun has no particular message save what we may draw from its habit of getting up in the morning and attending to business; also going to bed when its day's work is done.

In proportion as we translate this element of nature into our lives, we become sane and healthy, and have inward peace. Nature's gospel is do. Out of doings arise wisdom and joy.

That which saves the world is work. It is not the army nor the policeman, it is not the courts and jails that prevent universal riot and rebellion and crime. It is the fact that most people have to hustle to make a living. If the entire population of the nation were suddenly endowed and had to work no more, the last house would be blown up or burned down inside of a month.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Nature paints the best part of the picture, carves the best part of the statue, builds the best part of the house and speaks the best part of the oration.

* * *

Happy will that house be in which the relations are formed from character.

* * *

Selftrust is the first secret of success.

* * *

Contentment is a pearl of great price, and whoever procures it, at the expense of ten thousand desires, makes a wise and happy purchase.

Poverty consists in feeling poor.

* * *

Always do what you are foolishly afraid to do.

* * *

Conduct is three-fourths of our life and its largest concern.

* * *

If you are idle be not solitary. If you are solitary be not idle.

* * *

There is no wisdom in useless and hopeless sorrow.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHO is this, my Daughter, that bloweth his wife goodbye with a smile and goeth forth with a song in his heart and whistling upon his lips?

Who is this that seeketh not the Highway and the plaudits of the multitude, but searcheth out the secret places and performeth his feats of glory unseen and ALONE?

Helen Rowland

Who is THIS that hath found the true secret of Happiness and the joy that passeth understanding?

Lo, it is He, the FISHERMAN, the Prince of Wisdom and the King of Optimists!

Let Golfers strive after scores and loving cups and prizes, but the Fisherman is content with his luck, whatever it be.

Let golfers array themselves in passionate hose and rainbow shirts and checkered knickerbockers and all the glory of Solomon.

But HE is as the lily of the field, which taketh no thought wherewith he is clothed. For, even as a dog that unearthed a bone, he hath dug his OLDEST shoes from out the closet; and the moth-eaten hat which he hath rescued from the ashman, comforteth his head.

Let the Golfers play for the glory of the winning, but the Fisherman fisheth only for the joy of the fishing, which is true felicity.

Verily Patience is his middle name and Faith and Hope sustain his spirit. Sweetness and Quietness go with him and Perseverance is at his right hand.

He casteth with joy and thrilleth at the nibble at the bait; and when he baiteth in the fish his ecstacy knoweth no bounds—nay, even though it be but a half-pound baby, he is filled with delight.

He desireth no woman beside him, and his heart is not troubled by the absence of femininity.

He wandereth beside the purling streams, and his luncheon basket runneth over. He communeth with Nature and his spirit is refreshed.

His book is in his left hand and his flask is in his right hand pocket and neither sun nor rain nor wind hath power to ruffle him.

He feareth not failure; for if he hook fisheth him, then will his IMAGINATION and the fisherman come to his rescue and none shall know of the shame.

But if his luck favor him, then shall there be boasting and bragging in the Land forevermore, and all the world shall hear of it!

Then give him the fruit of his labor, which is a serene heart, a magnificent appetite and a beautiful story to tell his friends!

SELAH!

Worthy Family in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

I am writing to ask for help of some kind in clothing a family who are too proud to ask for themselves. They are worthy and the family is large. They are, girls 13 and 8, boys 9, 7 and 4, and a baby 4 months. The mother is very handy at making over. Although she doesn't know that her gratitude and appreciation would repay those that might help her.

Greater Prosperity for New England Through Greater Foreign Trade

By JAMES A. FARRELL

Chairman, National Foreign Trade Council, and President, United States Steel Corporation.

The holding of the Eleventh National Foreign Trade Convention in Boston, June 4, 5 and 6, should stimulate the interest of Massachusetts and New England generally in further developing the foreign trade possibilities of this great industrial section of the United States which possesses all the necessary potentialities to make it, if intensively developed, an active and important participant in overseas business.

Successful development of trade requires co-operation, and the Boston commercial bodies, and those of New England generally, are giving intelligent study and effort to extension of closer commercial relations with other nations. The advantages of foreign markets have long been recognized by the leading producers of our country and special organizations for the study and development of export and import trade have amply repaid such effort in securing an enlargement of our markets.

Our participation in foreign trade is not new, and never has been a matter of preference or of convenience; on the contrary, it has been and is a matter of economic necessity. It is not confined to large organizations; thousands of manufacturers and of exporters and importers of varying degree are developing foreign markets.

Those who are creating foreign trade departments in their organizations, and adjusting or changing their products to meet conditions prevailing in the countries they would reach, are, first of all, confronted by the problem of obtaining office men, salesmen, and executives trained to handle their business. This is a difficulty not easy of solution. While we need American ships and American banks for our foreign trade, we also need a specially trained personnel.

We will meet the competition of other nations that feel, as we do, the necessity of expanding their trade. For the present, and as long as conditions of inflation continue, especially among the more active of the industrial nations, we suffer many handicaps. Despite this, American manufacturers have achieved noteworthy results in the diversifying of their foreign commerce.

The gathering of 2,000 or more representative men engaged in overseas trade, and coming from every section of the United States to discuss current problems bearing directly on import and export, should prove a stimulus to those New England leaders who visualize in greater foreign trade greater prosperity for their section.

The convention will also afford delegates from other parts of the country to see the large scale and progressive improvements characterizing the Port of Boston. Its up-to-date equipment for the handling of cargo, the facilities of Boston and other major New England ports compare favorably with other important ports on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts. The important New England ports are equipped to meet demands for an increase in their present overseas business.

The natural and logical setting exists, with New England's vast and diversified interests, rail lines and open ports, for an increasing direct foreign trade. There are, of course, obstacles to be overcome in achieving the desired results. To overcome these obstacles requires active and sustained effort, but the ability of manufacturers, bankers and other factors, if concentrated on further development of foreign trade, should result in the attainment by New England of a more important position than it now occupies.

The central theme of the convention carries a pertinent message to New England. It is "Our Need for Wider Markets." Both the personnel of the convention and the topics to be discussed are full of message. The call to the convention has been to all Americans engaged in foreign trade or connected with any factor of our international commerce—agriculture, education, industry, finance and transportation—while the invitation has also been extended to all Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade, National and State Associations and other industrial and commercial organizations, to be represented.

Not only will export problems be considered, but a session will be devoted especially to the interests of importers. This session will be held in conjunction with the National Council of American Importers and Traders. Since foreign trade is of two kinds—export and import—due attention will be given at the convention to the problems of each.

The reasons for the present condition in overseas shipments from New England ports need not be considered here. These problems, no doubt, will be thoroughly gone into and remedies to correct the situation suggested by New England manufacturers themselves. It would seem to be sufficient for the purpose of this article to summarize the factors existing in New England for greater activity in overseas shipments via New England ports.

In predicting an eventual notable expansion in New England's direct export and import trade, sight is not lost of the unexcelled domestic market for her products, but the part of wisdom should lead to the practice, on the part of all manufacturers in a position to do so, to develop, as a permanent policy, an increasing percentage of sales abroad.

This policy is particularly desirable at this time, in view of the great expansion which took place during the war period in the potential productive capacity of industrial plants. The advisability of cultivating permanent markets is of particular advantage to manufacturers in times of lessened demand in domestic markets.

A few statistics of recent origin will suffice to show how favorably situated New England is to make a strong effort for a substantial volume of foreign trade. The six states comprising New England contain 25,529 manufacturing establishments with 1,351,353 wage earners. The annual wage disbursement approximates $1,437,000,000. The capital invested in these manufacturing industries aggregates $6,-931,409,000; the cost of materials, according to the last census, was $3,931,905,153; while the annual value of products totalled $7,153,-970,799.

The manufactured goods the output of these plants, comprise essential articles of utility, as well as luxury, and yet Massachusetts, out of a production of $4,011,181,-532 exported but $100,000,000 worth of goods in a recent year. Out of the 11,806 manufacturing establishments in this State, only 1,852 firms were reported as exporting part of their production.

New England's finished products contribute very materially to the comfort of the people of the United States as a whole, while such of her manufactures as find their way overseas are highly appreciated by those fortunate enough to be able to purchase them. The productivity and efficiency of New England's plants justify a larger participation in foreign trade than has been the case heretofore.

Foreign trade is generally considered in terms of export. The import side of foreign trade is also important. Many of New England's industries are partly, and in some cases wholly, dependent on this trend to supplement domestic products for manufacturing. Probably one-third of the raw wool consumed by the woolen mills of New England comes from Argentina, Australia, Egypt and elsewhere. The manufacturers of silk goods are entirely dependent on supplies of raw silk from Japan and in a more limited degree, from China.

In 1921 the United States produced but four tons of block tin. Without tin from the Straits Settlements, manganese from Brazil, nickel from Canada and New Guinea, and many other essential raw products, many plants in New England would be under the necessity of going out of business.

Our purchases of foreign raw materials for use in manufacturing enable the foreigner to come into the American market for finished goods. Thus it happens that many American finished articles return to sections of the world from which some of their basic ingredients were produced.

It is not, of course, intended to imply that all of the money we pay foreigners for their products is expended in the American market. These foreigners buy in various markets, but the fact remains that our heavy purchases of their products enable them to buy the finished goods in which the United States excels as a producer.

Among the subjects to be discussed by experts at the forthcoming convention are education for foreign trade, banking facilities for foreign trade, problems of the export manager, transportation and foreign trade, direct selling, foreign credits and credit information, advertising in foreign trade and international and shipping phases of the merchant marine.

One of the most helpful features of the convention will be the Trade Adviser service. In recent years this service has become an increasingly important part of the foreign trade conventions. An unusually strong staff of leading export executives from all parts of the United States interested in the expansion of our country's trade, will be present at the Boston convention as trade advisers, to make available their counsel, obligation, advice and information on foreign trade problems obtained through such experience.

The foreign trade of the United States for 1922 averaged more than $26,500,000 for each working day of the year. Exports alone averaged $13,880,000 per working day. Imports were over $12,600,000 a day. Almost two-thirds of these exports were the manufactured products of American industry. More than one-half of the imports were raw materials required in the manufacture of goods for home and foreign consumption.

The Department of Commerce report for January shows imports valued at $299,000,000 and exports amounting to $394,000,000. These are facts that offer inspiration and encouragement to American traders. They indicate opportunities for further expansion of foreign trade, and call for renewed energy, enterprise and co-operation.
